IF I WERE YOU SUMMARY

-by Douglas Jones

Entry of the Intruder

Gerrard was talking over the phone when the intruder (a criminal) came into the room with a gun in his hand. Gerrard was shocked at this but he kept himself calm and did not panic.

He tried to ask his name but he did not tell his name. The intruder was much interested in knowing the full name of Gerrard. He also wanted to know about his habits, his talking styles and about his other activities. Gerrard was very surprised to know that the intruder knew a few things about him.

Surprise to Gerrard

Gerrard engaged intruder in a conversation and came to know that the intruder wanted to kill him and take his identity. He was a jewel thief and was chased by the police for murdering a cop.

Gerrard Made a False Story

When Gerrard knew the intention of the intruder, he made a false story to save himself and capture the intruder. He told the intruder that he couldn't kill him because he too was wanted by the police. He made it sound real by telling him that he has to live in isolation as he too is being chased by the police.

Intruder Fell into the Story of Gerrard

At first, intruder didn't believe Gerrard but the decorative items and materials for appearances forced him to trust his words. Therefore, he decided to run away with Gerrard in his car. Gerrard pushed him into the cupboard instead of going in the garage. Then, he called his friend and asked him to send the cop at his home.

Conclusion of If I Were You

The Chapter – If I Were You teaches the lesson to students that we must not be over-confident and remain vigilant about our surroundings, so that even in tough circumstances, we maintain cool-headedness and are able to handle critical situations with ease.
