Types of Adverbs

What is an Adverb?

An adverb is a word which tells us more about

- A verb: Amie eats quickly.
- An adverb: The squirrel nibbled quite greedily.
- An adjective: I am very happy.

In the previous classes, you have been taught the following types of adverbs:

- Adverb of time (which show when)
- Adverb of place (which show where)
- Adverb of manner (which show how)
- Adverb of degree (which show to what extent)
- Adverb of frequency (which show how often)

These are also called simple adverbs. Let us look at a few examples of each type.

Adverbs can also be used in question statements.

Interrogative Adverbs

When an adverb is used in asking questions, it is called an interrogative adverb.

- Where is the library? (Interrogative adverb of place)
- How did you solve this sum? (Interrogative adverb of manner)
- When did the glass break? (Interrogative adverb of time)
- Why is the room noisy? (Interrogative adverb of reason)
- How many candies were sold? (Interrogative adverb of number)
- How high is the Qutub Minar? (Interrogative adverb of degree)

Adverbs are also used in relative clauses.

Relative Adverbs

- The relative adverb where is used to refer to places and means 'in which' or 'at which'.
 - This is the place where Shakespeare was born.
 - That is the section where the gas chambers were installed.
- The relative adverb when is used to refer to time and means 'in which' or 'at which'.
 - Night is the time when the dog starts howling.
 - Do you remember when you last rode a horse?
- The relative adverb why is used to refer to a reason and means 'for which'.
 - I don't know why she stole the book.
 - This is the purpose why the room is locked.

Recap

An adverb modifies another adverb, an adjective or a verb.

Adverbs of Time answer the question 'when' in relation to the verb.
